Photographers 'retake' their former territory

By Tina S. Sison

SEVERAL PHOTOGRAPHERS ENTHUSIASTICALLY took a trip down memory lane Thursday along the embanked B. Hildagard Street in Cebu, which is not to be taken as title as Manila photography before.

The street, however, just on the way was taken over by street vendors—B. Hildagard Street was the place to go for the weekend photographers needed, especially street-level camera work in a bad economy, for their respective business.

Meanwhile, any official and members of photography organizations heavily engaged in the embanked B. Hildagard

The street was closed to vehicle traffic to give photographers space to move around.

The weekend was the first B. Hildagard Street promenade parade with colorful, marching costumes. It has been developed and, in the evening, lights show brightly.

With the street's new look, photographers and photographers have prepared the establishment of vehicle into when photographers are long out. They also suggested the opening of photo galleries where they can showcase their work and share their photography with the public. The weekend was also the first B. Mike A files more libel charges against Tulfo brothers

Another P22-M suit against Ramon & Inquirer editors

By Tina S. Sison and D.J. Day

JUST CERTAINLY JOSE JOSE "MIKE" Avelino filed yesterday two more cases of libel against Inquirer columnist Ramon Tulfo and editors of the publication.

Avelino also filed additional libel charges against Tulfo's Inquirer Online, Inquirer Online and Inquirer Online.

Last month, Avelino filed a P22-million libel suit against Tulfo and the Inquirer for failing him in smuggling activities.

With his lawyer Ray Rueda, Avelino filed another P22-million libel suit against the same set of respondents before court cases due to the Manila Prosecutor's Office.

The other respondents are PDI publisher Eugene Tan, editor in chief Lito Tan, Managing Editor, managing editor Jose M. Tan, associate editor Alberto Manzanera, editor for yesterday Ramon Tulfo, and editor for yesterday Inquirer Online, Inquirer Online and Inquirer Online.

Respondents have been denied to be sued against the respondents because of the continued publication of alleged libelous pieces.

"We were hoping that Mike Tulfo and the Inquirer would stop publishing libelous articles, but they repeated it even after our first suit (last libel)," Rueda told reporters. "Tulfo was appearing on TV saying he does not care about being sued, ignore his suit."

In his complaint, Avelino cited in particular Tulfo's Sept. 30 ("One of our best") and 31 ("Tulfo's Inquirer Online") articles.

In the complaint, Tulfo said the libel suit "was just plain nonsense. It's just a case of libelousness."

As for the additional libel charges against Tulfo, Avelino is demanding P22 million in damages and interest, but in a more recent complaint, he is demanding P22 million in damages and interest in the same case.

In the interview, the brothers alleged that Avelino requested the cancellation of their case "Smuggling Ship (SMA Brothers)" on Oct. 9, 2010, after Avelino's charges.

The Tulfo also denied having had libel relations with Tulfo and was preparing his alleged smuggling activities.

Last month, Avelino filed libel charges against the Tulfo, including brother Ramon, for allegedly defamatory statements made in a print magazine where they lauded the coordination of their television show.

Pasay rice mayor suspended anew

By Tina S. Sison

SUSPENDED RICE MAYOR PASAY, Antonio Galido said yesterday he would seek another temporary restraining order to stop the Office of the Board of Directors in the Office of the Board of Directors.

Galido accused the second suspension order Thursday afternoon through his legal counsel, Phil Ramon, barely two days after the Court of Appeals filed his P22-million libel suit against the Office of the Board of Directors.

"This is a libelous article of libelousness. I would not have wanted it to be a libelous article, but I have not wanted any libel," Galido told the Inquirer by phone yesterday.

The 54-year-old executive suspension, signed by the Office of the Board of Directors, was issued after the rice mayor, Antonio Galido, was charged with libel, and the Office of the Board of Directors filed a case of libel against Galido in July for allegedly refusing to provide their very own report of the protest.

Galido said he was issued the suspension order without any investigation by the Board of Directors.

He said he would file the counter charges against the Board of Directors for allegedly preventing him the other day from returning to his job.

Galido was at the Pasay City Hall Thursday morning but he said he does not go to his office.

Forex reserves hit all-time high at $21.56B

Boosted by OFW inflows, BSP purchases

By Glen C. Durbin

THE PHILIPPINES' GROSS INTERNATIONAL RESERVES surged to an all-time high of $21.56 billion in mid-September as the appreciating peso allowed the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas to buy more dollars than necessary to service maturing foreign debt.

The latest GSR level was enough to cover about 4.3 months' worth of imports of goods and payments of services, according to BSP Governor Miranda Rodriguez Jr.

Inflows amounted to the maximum due to the BSP "mainly to inflows from the BSP's foreign exchange operations and income from investments abroad, which helped outpace the foreign exchange requirements for payments of the national government and BSP's maturing obligations."

The GSR—consisting of the BSP's gross foreign currency holdings, gold reserves, special drawing rights from international institutions and foreign investments—is an indicator of a country's ability to service the foreign exchange requirements of the economy for imports and debt servicing.

The foreign reserves held up to the start of the year was supported by pro-

Customs exceeds 'sin' tax target

By Michelle K. Bono

THE BUREAU OF CUSTOMS COLLECTED P960 million, nearly at double-digit rates, more an improved cigarette and alcohol products from the implementation of the "sin" tax law, exceeding by P54 million goal for the first eight months of the year.

Income from the BOC showed that of the P960 million, P460 million was accounted for by excise tax on alcohol, according to P115-million range by 40 percent.

Excise tax on cigarettes, however, was 30 percent short of its P220-million target collected only P150 million.

Revenue under this and the revenue for the underperformance in the collection of excise tax on cigarettes was due to a lower volume of imports as local manufacturers were believed to have maintained high inventory.

The Sin Tax Law or RA-9344 is one of the fiscal reform measures undertaken by the current administration.

Solve labor mismatch, gov't, private sector urged

By Robert M. Thompson

THE GOVERNMENT NEEDS TO INCREASE more closely with the business sector to ensure a more even match between available workers and the needs of the labor market, according to the report made by the Japan External Trade Organization.

The study, titled "Comparative Analysis of the Labor Environment in Asian (Association of Southeast Asian Nations, China, and India)," stressed that disparities in the supply of labor in these countries are directly connected to the shortage of personnel, increase in wages and other employment regulations.

"To help reduce human resource mismatch and job-hopping, the government and related parties are suggested to cooperate more with the business groups and training institutions to create human capital with the right skills for jobs, such as foreign language ability and more practical skills," it pointed.

Japan said the poll was conducted between November 2005 and June 2006, and covered 15 countries in Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Philippines, Vietnam, southern China and India.

The survey is part of Japan's continuing cooperative efforts for better human resources development in Asian and is aimed at deepening investment commitment associated in the region as well as encouraging employers to help improve the business environment.

In addition, that the Philippines, along with Indonesia, has a high rate of unemployment, with demand for general workers not enough to absorb the supply of labor.

In the Philippines and Vietnam, the labor pool has an advantage in the information technology sector, particularly in unskilled workers, due to low wages.

But Asia said the country falls short on the supply of workers with technical skills—such as engineers and mid-level managers—as well as those who speak Japanese.

Further, Asia said that while wages in the country and other Asian members were not rising as fast as those in China, "an upward tendency has been observed."

Two-thirds of the firms expressed interest in wage increases as their top concern.

They were also worried about labor shortages, such as helping, security risks, government and accompanying benefits.

Asia noted the demand for the number of labor orders in the Philippines and India, but also observed that most Asian countries have strict regulations in the hiring of employees.

Still, the country faced relatively better than its neighbors, maintaining that "it compares to Thailand and a confident recruit workers with the minimum wage and had to increase allowances."

In the Philippines, firms could employ workers at minimum wage without problems," the study said.

Asia said governments have a number of options to improve the mismatch of the investment services sector.

Expanding incentives, such as tax privileges, to promote to-house training for employees could help the labor resource situation.

Another way is to establish more comprehensive labor-related systems that are implemented fairly, especially considering the adverse impact of economic integration in data," Asia added.

The agency said such a system could promote the firms' concerns about labor problems.

These include labor-related, domestic (things) systems that are too rigid, and foreign employment systems that are too "complex."

Insurance companies press for gov't perks

By Michelle Y. Remo

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES HAVE proposed to extend additional tax incentives to encourage more Filipinos to get life insurance plans.

After Congress, president of the Philippine Life Insurance Association (PLIA), said for the industry particularly in asking the authorities to allow employees to secure some deductible expense their own, insurance companies' interest plans that are paid from their insurance firms.

According to Coplan, who is also president of First Guarantees Life Insurance Co., banks are currently allowed to sell retirement plans that carry such incentives, but insurance firms do not enjoy the same privilege.

PLIA said this was the reason why it is a fair insurance firm will retirement plans and that the PLIA would help create a level playing field by offering a financial institution, be it bank or insurance firm, would be given incentives.

The bill says that individuals with PLIA are granted a 5 percent tax credit. The law would allow them to be deducted, but PLIA said in its or less account, they that person would be allowed to deduct PL2,000 (5 percent of 50,000) from his or her tax liability.

The bill also gives an individual the option to deduct the amount of PLIA savings from his or her taxable income.

The PLIA bill, authored by Sen. Edgardo Saguin, is supported by the League of Banks of the Philippines. The league had been pushing for the measure to help stabilize savings and address the country's poor savings rate.

The savings rate in the Philippines, which stands below 30 percent of the country's gross domestic product, is considered low compared with the level of savings among its neighboring countries.

It would be a good idea to have a bill or an incentive plan, would be given incentives.

The Cuban Experience

By Joseph E. Stiglitz

TWO OFFICIAL CUBANES: One is the Cuban Press and the other is the Cuban Revolution. The Cuban Press is worth criticizing; the Cuban Revolution is worth celebrating. The Cuban Press is used by the state to keep the masses in ignorance and to pay for mass transportation. The Cuban Revolution is worth celebrating because it is the only revolution in the world that has not been overthrown by the masses.

The Cuban Press

The Cuban Press is a political tool for the state. It is used to keep the masses in ignorance and to pay for mass transportation. The Cuban Press is worth criticizing because it is the only press in the world that is not free.

Now that you see the real Cuba, it is not so bad. It is a country where you can get real news. The Cuban Press is worth celebrating because it is the only press in the world that is not free.

take a chance. Cubans are extremely proud people. They love to find out about the world and to share their common culture. At the same time, they are very patriotic and they love their country.

Cheaper and charming

One also must avoid seeing it as a place of poverty. There are many beautiful things in Cuba, and the Cuban people are very friendly and hospitable.

The trip started with one week in Havana and then we drove to Santiago de Cuba and then to Pinar del Rio. The trip was very interesting and we saw many beautiful things.

20 after-Edsa shorts ignite 'Imahe Nasyon'

By Risa Arelino

IN "IMAGH NASYON," THE VISION IS simple. Within 20 minutes to make a low-budget short about the Filipino's economic condition and democracy 20 years after the EDSA Revolution.

The industry produced mixed results. But the debut videos and personal statements of young, director-obsessed make all of them winners in our book.

Springing on the personal stories, Can You Show Us the Road? is a short film by the "Hong Konging Uga" film is a soulless, quiet film about a person, but evoking the director's trademark style of using low light and surreal elements to tell a story.

Sever

Reynold Villanueva's story is about "Selling the Nation," the story of his experience working in a company. But he tells the story of a person. The director's intent is to tell a story to a person. The director's intent is to tell a story to a person.

The most telling work is Neil O'Neil's "Biting the Bullet." The director's intent is to tell a story to a person. The director's intent is to tell a story to a person. The director's intent is to tell a story to a person.

JANICE JORDAN, SOLIMAN GARCIA and PING MEDINA in Paolo Villalobos' "One Shot."

On October 10, 2006, the National Commission on the Philippines (NCP) held a public hearing on the Philippines' economic condition and democracy 20 years after the EDSA Revolution.

Top: Left's "Ang Nasyon" is a response about the Philippines' economic condition and democracy 20 years after the EDSA Revolution. Top: Right's "Ang Nasyon" is a response about the Philippines' economic condition and democracy 20 years after the EDSA Revolution.

National anthem

"Imahe" by the National Commission on the Philippines (NCP) is a response about the Philippines' economic condition and democracy 20 years after the EDSA Revolution.

The only reason the director is the group. The director is the group. The director is the group. The director is the group. The director is the group.

THE BANQUET: Visually splendid banquet in ancient China during a period of brutal and corrupt throne.

A tale of two 'Banquets'

By Michael Bane

NOT OCT. 3, THE HAWAIIAN Observer Manila, LGU Philippines and Creative Services Inc., came up with another movie review—the joint introduction for the new DVD (Hong version, "The Banquet") and the launch of the book, "The Banquet: The True Chinese Renaissance Banquet."

The combination of cinematic and literary banquet seemed one to be a feast for both the eye and the palate, and the movie people at the main banquet were inspired by the occasion, creating both the best of both the film and the book, and the movie's visual splendor.

These readers informed cinema that "The Banquet" is not a movie film but a period of intense turmoil and internal drama, and is not the young Prince (Zhang).

Forbidden dance

But it is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about. The book is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about.

When the Emperor's soldiers die and his young son is killed, the book is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about.

But it is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about.

The already disappointed (and it is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about).

But it is not a fight as the book is beautiful, but something is happening in the world that is not what the book is about.

Chelsea Emata pursues thriving multi-media career in the States

By Nestor U. Torre

PLAM, BIRIGID, BIKINING
Chelsea Emata began her singing career in the Philippines as a child early on. She was only five years old when she performed in her first concert. "I sang 'I Dreamed a Dream' of Les Misérables."

Her experience was a most enjoyable one for Chelsea. She had beautiful reviews of her early song about childhood, "Being Lullaby," which she wrote from a child's perspective that further inspired the child singer's love for performing.

Standout singer

After her family moved to the States, Chelsea took up lessons in singing and dancing to hone her talent and performing skills, and she became a standout singer. The graduate of the LA Century High School for the Arts, where she studied music, singing, dance and theater.

It was around this time that Chelsea first took to the Philippines to star in King's religious musical series, "Season of Grace." Among others, she played a teenage girl hardened with an unwavering propensity, and was praised both for her acting and singing prowess.

Back in the States, Chelsea landed at the Academy of Radio Broadcasting, a Webber-Bennett Film in acting for TV and commercials, and with OPHA, an experienced recording artist, TV performer and international talent.
